Can't tell new courts without map

Castlewood project to joint burgeoning net set

PLEASANTON — In less than a week, this area has gone from rags to riches as far as tennis courts are concerned.

Castlewood entrepreuner John Marshall announced plans this week for a 21-court tennis complex at the corner of Foothill Road and Castlewood Drive.

That disclosure followed close on the heels on an announcement last Friday by Pietro Denevi and Anthony Martino to convert the long-vacant Volkswagen warehouse at the intersection of Interstates 580 and 680 into a private racquet club.

That complex is expected to to contain 20 indoor courts, 10 outdoor courts and handball and racquetball courts.

The Alameda County Fair Board had planned to install four indoor courts in the recently completed Young California building at the fairgrounds but those plans will most likely be reassessed at the board's Sept. 16 meeting.

Marshall's plans, which are still in the preliminary stages, are being prepared in conjunction with Ray McNamarra of Casa Dahia in Danville and architect Norman Hald of Mission San Jose.

The tennis complex will be located on eight acres, owned by Marshall, which are currently zoned for agricultural use. (A conditional use permit will be required from the Alameda County Zoning Administrator before the project can begin.)

Marshall said negotiations with Castlewood Country Club are underway to see if that club is interested in joining in the venture. If they do participate, it would be named the Castlewood Tennis Club, Marshall added, and if not, the complex would be called the Pleasanton Tennis Club.

Marshall said some of the social aspects of John Gardner's highly successful tennis complex in Carmel might be incorporated into the local club, but those ideas are still in the formative stages.

At present, plans call for a two-story clubhouse, located about 600 feet from Castlewood Drive, with the 21 courts fanning out on either side.

A raised and covered veranda would surround the clubhouse and also extend around a central exhibition court, which would contain a seating area. Parking for 100 cars is planned.

Marshall feels the tennis club is in a "natural location" because it is so accessible. Referring to the Volkswagen warehouse plans, he said he believes the two complexes would help each other, because of the growing popularity of tennis.

Marshall also believes, "By starting from scratch, we can have a far more beautiful set-up" than many other tennis centers in the Bay Area that were added onto piece-meal.

Marshall, who operated the old Phoebe Apperson Hearst estate before it became the Castlewood Country Club and who has lived in the Castlewood area for 40 years, said he is "not interested in making a great deal of money" from the venture.

"We are planning low initiation fees and low monthly club charges to make it easy for people" to belong, he added.

More detailed plans for the Pleasanton club will most likely be announced in the next two weeks, Marshall said.

Run-around from county?

Flap over Foothill Road guard dog business

PLEASANTON — "The entire hill can go to the dogs," stated Neil L. Miller of 4432 Foothill Road, Pleasanton, in his frustration to get action out of the Alameda County agencies on a guard dog business "presently operating illegally," according to Miller at 5470 Foothill Road.

About a month ago, Miller heard a rumor that Mills property located at 5470 Foothill (in the foothills with the entrance directly across from Stoneridge homes) consisting of some 60 acres or thereabouts, was sold to someone who trained dogs to attack for security purposes.

On June 30, Miller checked with Dick Flynn of the County Zoning Department to "voice" his objections to such an installation in the event the property had been sold and to see if a county permit had been applied for the operation of a business in an agricultural zoned area. According to Miller, he was advised by Flynn that no application had been received and stated he was sorry he could not grant Miller's request of an objection. "He informed me that I would have to watch for notices posted on telephone poles close to the subject property or to continually read all the published legal notices in the daily newspaper," Miller said.

On Sunday, June 29, while Miller was working on his property which is a neighbor to the Mills' property, he heard what "seemed to be a pack of dogs barking and howling from the Mills area."

He went into the house and placed a call to Mills and reached an answering device stating to leave a number and his call would be returned immediately. Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, Miller said he placed more calls since he had not heard from Mills. Still no contact.

On Thursday, July 3, he received a call from Mills stating his phone device was not working properly or he would have returned the call sooner. Miller related his dog story to Mills. Miller stated he was advised by Mills "that Mills had sold his property to a person that kept 10 to 20 security dogs on the property and that it was the business of the new purchaser to train and lease the dogs."

Miller's main concern of the business in that particular area is that "it is no longer a 'remote' area as the applicant claims, what with many homes only one half mile from the area; the health aspect; — "this is no different than opening a 50 room motel with no sewerage connection or septic tank," Miller injected; — the fear of the dogs getting loose and hurting either the animals which roam the hills or wander down into the residential district and attack a person and this would open the hills to other commercial businesses effecting the tax base."

On July 8, William G. Schilp, the party interested in purchasing the property and operating "Sentry Dog, Inc." formerly of Hayward, called up Miller to "discuss Miller's concerns" and to "cement relations between neighbors," Miller said. According to Miller, at that time, Schilp told Miller that "all he had to do was to apply for a permit and his problems were over, claiming that from that point on the county had no real hard and set rules to follow, either as to buildings, noise or otherwise." Miller said he asked Schilp if any of his dogs got loose and that Schilp replied, "Yes, once in awhile, but it has been three years since any have gotten out."

Later that same day, July 8, Miller phoned Jim Dowd at the County Zoning Department, was transferred to a Mr. Locke of the same department and was advised by Locke, according to Miller, that "the application for a use permit would have to be made in 10 days or the dogs removed by the buyer and that there would be a hearing held in about 30 days."

As of Monday, Aug. 18, the dogs, number undetermined at this point, were still on the property. A public hearing for a conditional use permit is scheduled by the Alameda County Zoning Administrator on Aug. 27 at 1:30 p.m. in the County of Alameda Public Works Building Auditorium, 399 Elmhurst St., Hayward at which time all persons interested may appear and be heard.

Since no action had been taken by the County to remove the dogs from the premise, Miller went to the Health Department and filed a "formal written complaint" in regard to the health conditions in the area with his main concern being his water supply could possibly be contaminated.

On Wednesday, July 9, Miller reached a Miss Davis of the Zoning Department and requested information on "standards for kennels." Miller stated that Miss Davis informed him that, "the Zoning Department applied the standards of the Health Department or Animal Control Center."

Later the same day, Miller contacted a Mrs. Jean Printz of the Animal Control Center to try to obtain the above information. According to Miller, Mrs. Printz advised him that "their department had many standards to follow in regards to dogs or animals in residential areas, but there were no set of standards nor did anyone from their department ever patrol kennels or anything of an animal business nature." Miller claimed she further stated, "Their office issued the permit to animal kennels, but only after receiving health certificates from the Health Department."

Miller received a copy of Ordinance No. 72-80 covering noise disturbances by ani-

Also music program

On site chief is parent concern

PLEASANTON — Concern for a full-time, on site administrator with a voice on the principals' council and the district's music program still await resolving by the Pleasanton Elementary School District.

Kirk and Lonnie Battleson and several hundred Vintage Hills School parents have asked the administration to assign the equivalent of a half-time principal to the school.

The music position still awaits a job description and hasn't officially been opened for applications.

Carl Krause, Assistant Superintendent for Personnel, said a decision on precisely what the new person will do and where he or she will be headquartered awaits the outcome of talks with district principals.

At a school board meeting several weeks ago it was indicated the new hire might work from Pleasanton Elementary School and have responsibilities at one other district school.

But Krause now says the person to be hired, hopefully before the start of school, could teach instrumental and-or choral music on a district-wide schedule.

Last year, Richard Dacus was in charge of band and Ray Baptista taught music to seventh and eighth graders at Pleasanton Elementary, Ray Gerloff instructed instrumental music and Alberta Hill choral music at Harvest Park. Sharon Barry taught music at Alisal and Fairlands.

Krause said that applications have already been received for the job and that it would be open to suitably qualified personnel presently in the district as well as those outside.

Thrust of the Vintage Hills petition and continuing concern is to have an administrator available who can deal with staff, student and building problems each day.

Mrs. Battleson adds they would like that same person entitled to attend principals' council meetings...."where policy is decided and monies apportioned."

According to the Battlesons, Vintage Hills will have two more classrooms than last year and, because of shifting some classes between Pleasanton and Valley View, John Bristow will have a much bigger administrative load. Bristow will return as principal at both Valley View and Vintage Hills, though his office is at the former.

Enrollment projections are difficult to pinpoint at this time of year, according to Dr. David Carlisle, Director of Research and Development, though Vintage Hills will probably open with between 200 and 210 K-3 students.

Valley View, serving K-5 students, is projected to house 720...which Carlisle has indicated is an "ideal capacity" for the school.

Calculating precise figures is made a little more difficult by the fact Elliott Homes is doing considerable building again.

Brian and Ruth Hoyt, co-chairmen of the Vintage Hills School PTA, claim the biggest need is for someone the teachers, students and parents can call on at any time, any day. But they're afraid that the only on-site administrator now, teaching vice principal Phyllis Clark, may have to teach all day and thus not be available for counsel.

"They (petitioners) just don't want Vintage Hills to be slighted," said Mrs. Hoyt in discussing the situation at the district's newest school.

Four generations at one school

Shelly's family holds reunion

PLEASANTON— "We had eight teachers then and each one had 50 kids and they didn't complain," recalls Anna Andresen as she beams at her children hastily convened for a mini-reunion at Pleasanton Elementary School.

A life long resident of this community, Mrs. Andresen is the matriarch of a clan that has seen four generations to date attend Pleasanton Elementary School.

The present generation is represented by 11-year old Shelly Fields, daughter of Joan Fields and her husband, Jim, a teacher at Harvest Park School. Joan, who was born in Pleasanton, is the daughter of Mrs. Genevieve Malmquist. She is a secretary at Foothill High School.

Mrs. Malmquist went from kindergarten through eighth grade at the venerable school "on the hill", graduating in 1936. She then went on to Amador Valley Joint Union High School where William Wiebel was principal.

Wiebel was dubbed "Willie" by the kids of that era, a nickname that the late educator got as principal at Pleasanton Elementary when Mrs. Andresen was there.

Anna is a "caution" in the truest sense.!

The spry octogenarian chimes in that she made sure her daughter, Genevieve, attended Pleasanton Elementary since she was the first-ever cafeteria cook at the school. "Besides, it was the only school around." She started the cafeteria in cooperation with Mrs. Walter Briggs and ladies of the PTA in 1926.

Mrs. Andresen started school at Pleasanton Elementary in 1910 when Frank Bacon was principal. The family owned a residence out on Sycamore Road— "Chicken Alley"—for 50 years. She and Mrs. Malmquist intimated, though, we should go light on the appelation for that area.

Mrs. Andresen now resides on Spring Street, which has no known nickname. At least none that can be printed

Joan Fields, the third generation, went from kindergarten through eighth grade at Pleasanton, graduating in 1960. Hubby Jim received his diploma in 1958.

Though a Pleasanton teacher, Jim was born in Oakland....a fact that localites will tend to forgive since Fields considers Pleasanton his adopted home town.

The present day progeny at Pleasanton is represented by Shelly, soon to go into the seventh grade at the First Street school.

A son of Mrs. Malmquist's, John, also attended Pleasanton Elementary and graduated in 1958. He still lives here and has a daughter, Sabrina, who will be in kindergarten at Alisal.

Another Fields offspring, Ty, will be entering second grade at Valley View next month.

So four generations of the same family, which extends back over 65 years of P.E. history, figures to go on for many years to come.

Komandorski rent boost not pleasant but needed

PLEASANTON — The Housing Authority didn't like raising rent 15 per cent Tuesday night for the "old and squeaky" units in Komandorski Village, but took the action rather than be forced to raise rent next year by 25 or 30 per cent, Vice Chairman Bill Thompson said Wednesday.

"It wasn't done lightly; it was not something we really wanted to do," he said of the increases, which will take effect Oct. 1. He noted that the 166-unit facility was built for temporary use more than 30 years ago, and that rent hikes have become increasingly "hard to justify" to the 140 low-income families who live there.

Rent was raised last year by 5 per cent, to a range between $81 for a one-bedroom unit and $138 for a five-bedroom unit. "Last year we were hoping things would turn around, so we didn't raise them enough," Thompson said.

Instead of improving, the cost of utilities soared to an average of $50 per unit this year. Tenants do not pay their own utility costs.

However, tenants who have dryers will have to pay an extra $5 per month instead of $1 after Oct. 1.

Despite the rent hikes, which were approved by a 4-0 vote, the fiscal 1975-76 budget of $233,000 approved by commissioners shows a $17,000 deficit to be offset by money previously intended for building demolition.

Thompson said that families who, because of the increases, will have to pay more than 25 per cent of their incomes for rent will be eligible for "adjustments." Rents will also be lowered for families who might suffer "undue hardship" from the increases, he said. "We will put no families out of the village because of the rent increase."

City nixes four claims on damages

PLEASANTON — The city council denied four claims which have been filed against the city Monday night, totaling nearly $1 million.

Two of the claims are related to accidents, one is a result of the May 3 KNBR Good Times Parade and the fourth is from a developer and was prompted by the lack of sewer capacity.

The claimants have six months in which to file suit against the city.

Details of the claims are as follows:

√ Jeffrey Monian, 4577 Los Lomitas Ave., is seeking $50,000 as the result of a bicycle-car accident which occurred April 7, 1975.

√ Maxine and Guy Meyers of Alameda are seeking $5,000 in damages resulting from an arrest for sale of merchandise without a license during the KNBR Good Times Parade on May 3, 1975.

√ Lyle Herlitz is seeking $200,000 in damages as the result of a pedestrian-car accident that occurred Feb. 11, 1975.

√ Amador Valley Investors has filed a claim for $700,000 against both the city and school district because a 10-acre parcel in the Fairlands tract, which belongs to them, had been reserved for a school site. The school district has failed to purchase the property and sewage capacity for development is not now available.

Meet the champ tomorrow

Sporting a new hairstyle, Pleasanton's champion gymnast, Diane Dunbar, invites the community to an admission-free winetasting party tomorrow in appreciation of its support. With her are Warren Harding and Jack Lavey who are among local businessmen who have helped to finance Diane's travels to qualifying meets for the 1976 Olympic games. The event is slated for 7:30 p.m. at Pleasanton's Century House

Pleasanton quiz results point to more activities for seniors

PLEASANTON — Area residents would like more activities for senior citizens, more special classes that teach such things as guitar and gymnastics, more playground facilities and-definitely-more tennis courts.

Those are some of the conclusions drawn from questionnaires that were distributed by the city and completed by about 200 persons. The results will be discussed Wednesday by the Park and Recreation Commission.

Recreation coordinator Ann Carroll said the sample was very small, and the results might be biased somewhat by special interest groups which completed the questionnaires.

"Tennis courts have always been a priority," said Carroll, although she added that proposed courts for the Young California Building and a planned private raquet club could eventually change that.

She said that the questionnaires also showed some people did not think recreation events were well publcized. She said the department can no longer afford to mail information about upcoming events.

Other results of the questionnaires:

•Swimming and the VIP Club for senior citizens emerged as the favorite activities sponsored by the recreation department. Eighty-seven said swimming was one of their favorites, 63 cited the VIP Club and tennis was a close third with 54 enthusiasts. Forty persons said they liked the special classes.

•Asked what areas they would like improved, 67 persons answered VIP Club and other senior citizen activities, 35 wanted more classes and 23 wanted improved playgrounds.

Drug bust nabs pair of suspects

LIVERMORE — Local police and state narcotics agents arrested two Livermore men Tuesday night and booked them for allegedly selling an undercover agent six ounces of cocaine.

Livermore Police detective Dan Killeen "suspects it's relatively good" cocaine that should test out at 70 percent pure. It would be worth some $30,000 when cut and broken for street sale, he said.

The undercover agent, described as suave and modishly dressed, signaled surveillance units after he reportedly paid $8,400 to David Celli, 21, and Paul Fausnaught. 20, for the "snow."

Killeen said the agent, whose name state bureau of narcotics enforcement officials refuse to release, called him last week and said he was infiltrating a local group whose supply was destined for use in the valley.

The agent allegedly set up a buy for Tuesday night at a local motel. Celli, the agent claims, offered a sample at the motel, but deferred the transaction to a more remote spot.

Tailed by Killeen and Livermore reserve officer Mike Newton plus four state agents from Fresno and four more from San Jose, the inconspicuous caravan made its way to N. Livermore Avenue and Las Positas Road where the agent alleges he paid $8,400 for the six ounces.

Foothill guard dogs

mals and copy of Ordinance No. 75 which contains an on construction and maintenance. Ordinance No. 75-50 states, "No dog kennel shall be constructed until the locations and plans have been approved by the County Health Department."

On Monday, July 14, Miller met with Norman Paul of the Alameda Health Department on Hopyard Road in Pleasanton to see if Paul had any material stating requirements for a proposed kennel or if the guard dog type of business could be considered a kennel ... According to Miller, Paul claimed he would first contact Flynn of the Zoning Department to see what had transpired at that office and that Paul would make a visit to the Mills property. Paul also claimed, according to Miller, Paul would receive a copy of the conditional use permit application and when he had this information, Miller could obtain a copy from him.

On Wednesday, July 16, Miller phoned Flynn of the Zoning Department and explained that Schilp (buyer of the property) had advised him that Schilp had made application for his permit on the previous Wednesday, July 9, and that Miller's attorney wanted to obtain a copy of that permit from the Zoning Department. Flynn advised Miller no application had been applied for as yet, according to Miller.

Since. in Miller's words, Schilp told Miller he was the only one in the neighborhood against the dogs, Miller made a call to his neighbors and found that all those he contacted, "expressed their dissatisfaction with the type of operation proposed for the Mills property. All those contacted said they would register their complaints, but would wait until the Zoning Department received the application for the it.

On Tuesday, July 22, Miller called Paul (Health Dept.) to inquire as to the investigation Paul had previously told Miller he would make. Miller said that Paul stated he had not made the investigation, but had called Locke, Zoning Investigator, and that Locke explained he had given the new buyer ten days to make application for a permit. Miller further stated that Paul also advised him, at this time, that the new buyer had made an application for a permit on Friday, July 18, yet when Miller spoke with Flynn (Zoning Dept.) on Monday, Julx 21, Flynn advised Miller no application had been received.

During this same visit, Miller further asked Paul what his department would do in regard to health violations for the ten days allowed the purchaser by Locke and the additional 30 days before a hearing were held. Miller claimed Paul stated, "The investigation would follow through regular routine channels."

"I felt and I still feel that I have made a formal written complaint to the Health Department," said Miller "and that the Health Department should act on that complaint." Miller's formal written complaint is dated July 14.

A continued conversation with Paul on this day, led Paul to reveal, according to Miller, that Schilp had conveyed the meaning he had purchased the property for a great deal of money and that the Planning Department would not allow him to subdivide the property and build homes on any subdivided lotss; therefore, he had nothing else he could do with the property besides putting dogs on it.

Following the information from Paul (Health Dept.) that an application had been made by Schilp, Miller checked with the County Recorder office and was assured, "no recording had been made through July 18." Upon receiving this information, Miller again phoned Paul to advise him of his findings. Paul then mentioned Schilp would have a great deal of trouble with his program, Miller said, as underground sewerage would be necessary to accommodate the number of dogs Schilp was contemplating on having on the premise and also that the City of Pleasanton would not be interested in having it connected to their lines at this time.

On Friday, July 25, Miller again called Paul to inquire about the "physical inspection" of the Mills' property. According to Miller, Paul began by saying he and a member of the Animal Control Center had made an appearance on the Mills' property and even though they felt someone was in the area, they could not arouse anyone. Paul, as stated, by Miller, and his companion continued up to the barn area where the dogs are kept. Paul claimed, Miller said, "that there was far from adequate conditions to keep these dogs." For this reason Paul and his companion left a note asking Schilp (owner) to call the Health Dept in 24 hours as Schilp must remove the dogs from the area immediately.

Apperson ranch ruling

Sierra Club to appeal

SAN FRANCISCO — Sierra Club attorney Owen O'Donnell said Wednesday the club will definitely appeal the July 31 ruling that paved the way for development of William Apperson's Diamond A Guest Ranch.

A meeting of all seven of the plaintiffs in that seven-month court case has been scheduled for late this afternoon, O'Donnell said, to determine which of them wish to participate in the appeal.

The other plaintiffs are the League of Women Voters, Preserve Area Ridgeland Committee (PARC), Tri-City Ecology Center, Regional Parks Association, Endangered Species Committee of California and Sherman Lewis, a Hayward resident.

In his ruling July 31, Alameda County Superior Court Judge Lyle Cook denied the Sierra Club's petition for writ of mandate.

The Sierra Club had unsuccessfully attempted to convince the judge that the Alameda County Board of Supervisors had acted improperly in granting Apperson a permit for the guest ranch and that the development would conflict with the county's open space element.

Apperson has proposed the guest ranch and health spa on 145 acres of his 2,500-acre Apperson Ridge ranch. In addition to cabins and a central restaurant complex, the project would contain hiking and equestrian trails on about 1,300 acres of the ranch.

Apperson, a long-time Pleasanton rancher, first proposed the guest ranch two and one-half years ago. The project was set to go ahead last year when the Sierra Club opened a two-pronged effort to block it on environmental grounds.

In addition to filing the court suit last January, the club also appealed to the State Water Resources Control Board, contending the discharge requirements established for the development by the Regional Water Quality Control Board had not taken into account all environmental impacts.

After two hearings in May, the regional water board reaffirmed its original standards for the Diamond A Guest Ranch, thus removing that obstacle.

The announced appeal of Judge Cook's ruling, however, promises to delay Apperson even longer.

Colonial Americans suffered for fashion

EDITOR'S NOTE: They wore saques and fichus and panniers and pushed up their bosoms with whale bone and scratched where the wig lice itched. But colonial dames, as well as fastidious gentlemen of the day, would go to whatever length — or width or height — to keep in the fashion.

By Kristin Goff (AP)

It was always expensive, sometimes uncomfortable and occasionally hazardous to health. But a small class of wealthy colonials felt it worth it to keep up with the latest in 18th Century style.

High fashion for the early American women who could afford it emphasized narrow waists, wide hips and pushed-up bosoms. Girls got their first corset, reinforced with wooden slats or whalebone, at about age 4, and continued to wear one until death. Fainting and malformed spines were among the hazards for those who followed the style to extremes.

Men also had their sacrifices to make. For much of the 18th Century, wigs were considered essential for a gentleman. Small boys, like their fathers, were sometimes fitted with heavy, hot and often cumbersome wigs. For comfort, and to ensure a close fit, some shaved their heads or closely cropped their hair.

By the middle of the century wigs gradually began declining in fashion. Instead, gentlemen grew their own hair long and had it groomed and powdered. Still there were other unpleasantries associated with both wigs and hair styles for men and women.

Weevils found cozy homes in many a colonial wig. Head lice and other vermin nested in some of the best-dressed heads of the times.

Wigs, sometimes made of human hair but also of goat hair or wool, were set with perfumed animal fat and powdered with talcum, flour or cornstarch.

Trends in hair style and clothing often followed the styles which were popular in the courts of England and France.

Costly silks, laces, brocades, velvets and cotton were imported for clothing worn by both sexes. Travelers were eagerly questioned for news of the latest fashions abroad.

The Watteau gown, or sacque, was one of the popular style of dresses worn by women. It was a flowing gown with a wide back pleat to the floor-length hem. There were variations in the basic style, but it was generally low cut at the neck, shaped with a corset to produce the fashionable look of the up-pushed bosom.

Women often wore fichus, or scarf-like garments, over low-cut bodices, more for warmth than for modesty. Low-cut necklines were prevalent in dress for all classes of women, probably a functional style in origin for mothers who breast-fed their babies as they went about chores.

Paniers, undergarments which attached basket-shaped objects to each hip to fan out a skirt, were popular for a time.

Toward the time of the Revolution, a sentiment against the British Stamp Act caused some patriots to put away their finest imported clothes. Along with boycotting tea, many turned to homespun clothing produced in the colonies.

George Washington, customarily an elegant dresser, wore a brown suit of homespun broadcloth for his inauguration in 1789.

Budding talent is recognized

Described by her Father as "the perfect child," Lisa Dick, eight-year-old artist displaying her watercolors in the children's section of the Livermore Public Library, is fast adding to her long list of growing admirers.

Most viewers are amazed that the painter of such professional work is so young. When the librarian was approached by her teacher, Bess Castoris, for permission to display her student's pictures, she naturally assumed they would be the usual scribblings of a child.

But the paintings on display already show an in-depth talent just blossoming. Some of the paintings show an quality, perhaps because her teacher once studied under the well-known watercolorist, Jade Fon.

Lisa Dick came under Bess Castoris' tutelage in February of this year. Prior to that time she had had no professional training. Her mother and father asked the artist if she would observe her work, and appraise it.

Her mother, Mrs. Silas M. Wills, and father, Stephen C. Dick, exhibiting understandable pride, didn't really need much reasurrance. They had noticed her artistic affinity since the time she could hold a pencil.She not only enjoyed the usual array of children's coloring books, but was good at it.

When she started school, her talent became obvious to the teachers as well because she so far excelled the performances of her peers.

Her art teacher, Mrs. Castoris, feels she has indeed exceptional talent, "otherwise, I wouldn't have given her the lessons." She doesn't consider herself a teacher, as such, but has helped others develop their techniques.

But in the case of Lisa, she describes her student as "such a delight, and she takes instruction so well, that I will keep her as long as I can help her."

She further feels that Lisa really hasn't begun to show her potential, and is still learning color and mixing. Most of her paintings have been done under instruction, but she's so fast, she does one in about two hours and at least two a week.

There are 30 paintings on display at the library, many of which have been sold. These will be the original paintings of the future artist, Lisa Dick.

The exhibit continues through the end of the month.

SETTING THE SCENE

Bill Hayden

The one thing you can be certain about as far as a Robert Altman film is concerned is its unusual quality in both quantity and approach.

"NASHVILLE", now in its third week at the Vine Theatre in Livermore is no exception Altman's up to his usual, unusual standards.

For those who furrow a brow over his name, Altman is the producer and director responsible for "Mash", "Brewster McCloud" and "McCabe and Mrs. Miller" interesting films which certainly go a long way to prove the point.

"NASHVILLE" in its early runs garnered some very negative reaction from critics. I went expecting a debacle and came away ready to sing Altman praise forevermore

"NASHVILLE" is a great film, but it is one you'll have to work at to enjoy with any enthusiasm similar to mine.

Overall, it is a sort of tribute to the recording industry in that great capital of Country Music. As a matter of fact, it is not about a place at all Nashville is just a name and all the characters Altman conjures up bear very little relation to particular people. They are, however, more than stereotypes and a viewer can easily be impressed by the depth of their feelings and responses to one another.

One of the great surprises will be to find comedian Henry Gibson in a colorful role of a fabulous country singer named Haven Hamilton. It doesn't take more than a couple of minutes to lose yourself in his performance. Gibson IS Haven Hamilton in all his phoney grandeur and in the wealth of detail he brings to the characterization.

You will also find deep feeling for Lily Tomlin as Linnea Reese. Tomlin has come a long way from her crazy characterizations on Laugh In. She provides "NASHVILLE" with several highly charged dramatic moments.

Others in the cast include David Arkin, Barbara Baxley, Ned Beaty, Karen Black, Ronee Blakley, Timothy Brown, Keith Carradine, Geraldine Chaplin and Keenan Wynn. It is a typical, if such a thing is possible, Altman cast. For those of you who laughed long and hard at "Mash" and the mad characters the director created there, "NASHVILLE" is much more of the same but on a higher and more sophisticated plane.

This is a long film — two hours and 40 minutes; but every moment of it is absolutely fascinating if you go along with the approach that Altman has taken and absorb all the little bits and pieces of plot and action flashing by in a very erratic fashion. So much is happening at the same moment in time that it is difficult to keep it all straight. However, be forwarned that this is the only way the film will make any sense. Everything is pulled together in a final 30 minutes which will leave you absolutely stunned and worn out. For a long period of time you are allowed to figure out what is going to happen. When it doesn't and the totally unexpected occurs, it's enough to blast you right out of your seat.

By this, you must assume I've gone slightly daft on the subject of "NASHVILLE", but it is so seldom one has an opportunity these days to really ENJOY a movie I'd like everyone to find it their cup of tea, too.

It just so happens that as the film goes into a third week, the local management has booked "MASH" back for the umpteenth time as a co-feature. If there's anyone in the world who hasn't seen "Mash", it is also well worth your time. It certainly is a 'different' type of picture and the combination should go a long way to proving the validity and worth of the Altman talent.

Through next Tuesday, (Aug 26), There will be one performance of "MASH" each evening beginning at 7:30 p.m. and followed at 9:34 by "NASHVILLE"

"THE RETURN OF THE PINK PANTHER" reigns in the other Vine auditorium on a single bill basis with four performances daily. Call the theatre for starting times and I'll let you know what Peter Sellers is up to same time, same place next week.

For Thursday, Aug. 21, 1975

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You're fortunate in doing things alone today. Shun large groups or social functions because you'll meet opposition.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You'll upset family members if you let a secret slip out today. Luck is on your side as long as you keep things to yourself.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) It's a waste of time to travel or run errands today, since nothing can be accomplished. Bask in the sun by the pool.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Avoid spending money today. You'll buy all the wrong things. You can be creative without needless expense.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Others won't see eye-to-eye with you today. If you could listen to their side of the story and yield, it would bring you happiness.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You'll have an inclination to make changes at work today. There'll be no problems unless you try to use unfamiliar tools on the project.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You can have a good time today with one or two people. Don't let it grow into a mob scene, or your fun will be fleeting.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Much work can be accomplished at home today, but don't look for pats on the back. Forget it. You won't get them.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Don't be drawn into deep discussions about things such as politics or religion today. Keep the rap sessions light. Avoid bitterness.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You'll be tempted to buy something today, but check with the family first. Otherwise, you could upset them.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Your one-to-one dealings with associates could be unfortunate today. Why not go out and meet new and different people?

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Play your hunches anywhere but at work today. The sarcastic comments of co-workers could throw you off-balance.

Your Birthday

Aug. 21, 1975

You may not possess all the money in the world this coming year. If you go on a lot of short trips and meet new people, much happiness awaits you.

Opening lead — J ♠

By Oswald & James Jacoby

It is a cinch to find a way to go set at three notrump. All South has to do is to lead a diamond toward dummy at trick two and rise with an honor. East will hold back his ace. Later on South will have no way to collect more than one extra diamond trick.

South will complain that suits never break for him, but his complaint should fall on deaf ears.

If South stops to think after taking that first spade he will see that three diamond tricks will be enough to give him his contract. He will remember that diamonds do break 4-2 more often than 3-3, and he will find the safety play to take care of that 4-2 break.

When he leads that diamond he will play low from dummy. East won't be able to do better than to take his 10. Later on South will play one of the diamond honors to knock out the ace and will use dummy's king of clubs as an entry for the rest of the diamond suit.

Simple, when you stop to count.

Ask the Jacobys

A Kansas reader wants to know if we would lead the ace of clubs against six spades. Our whole hand is given as: ♠ x x ♥ x x x x ♦ x x x x ♣ A x x.

The answer is that we would like to know all the bidding but that in general with this sort of hand our best chance to beat the slam is to plunk down the ace and hope. At least the opponents aren't likely to make a grand slam.

Vic Wolfe's thank-you note

PEBBLE BEACH — Vic Wolfe is evidently not one to let brief alliances stand in the way of his progress on the golf course.

Tuesday night the reigning state junior college golf champ stayed with Brian Decker between rounds of the Northern California Golf Association Amateur Championships being contested this week at Spyglass Hill.

Yesterday, though, Wolfe put aside thoughts of sharing as he eliminated Decker from the tourney 5-and-4.

Today, Vic will try the formula out again as he goes against his roomie of last night, Ray Pelligrini in what should be a tough test for both golfers. Pelligrini, from San Francisco's Olympic Club, easily advanced to the fourth round with a 7-and-6 triumph yesterday.

Wolfe is now the only area golfer remaining in the event as three other Valley linksters met with defeat in yesterday's third round.

Chuck Van Linge, the event's 1973 champ, had to hustle to bump Diablo's Scott Tuttle from contention.

"I thought I'd had it a couple of times," Van Linge said later, "I really had to scramble." Although he had an eagle 3 on the 520-yard 11th hole, Van Linge missed putts from inside two feet on each of the 12th and 14th.

"Those had to be the shortest putts I've ever missed," he said.

Tuttle had plenty of his own troubles however and on the 16th hole played the key sequence of the match. Scott had what many believed was an impossible lie, in a water hazard, but made an astonishing recovery shot to within eight feet of the pin.

He missed the putt and a routine par by Van Linge on 17 clinched the match.

Robert Fulton, like Wolfe from Las Positas, staggered through the final four holes of his overtime match with Jon Rawitzer and lost, one down after 20.

Fulton, whose name went up on the scoreboard as the winner before Rawitzer began his comeback, was 2-up with just the 17th and 18th to go, but lost both. Although he saved par with a clutch eight-foot putt on the first play-off hole, a bogey on the second enabled Rawitzer to win via a station-to-station par.

Sunol's Don Bihl went out at the hands of Lincoln Park's (S.F.) John Susko, who recently returned from competing in the United States Publinks championships in Hawaii.

Susko won with a little breathing room, but was not entirely satisfied with his round "I did what I always do," he sighed, referring to the fact that he was one under par after 11, but faltered and shot two double bogeys during the final seven holes.

Wolfe second test of the roomate theory will get underway at 7:12 a.m.

Ingledue had his worst efforts on the handicap holes and took the blind bogey event with a 90 gross and a 48 net. Other prizes went to Pleasanton's Dave Matthews (low gross), Beth Fanucchi (hacker's award), Ken Perry (longest drive), Judd Hall (closest to hole), Steve Post (second closest) and Mick Piotoski (third closest). 'Go outside and play'

ted brock

Rivalries among the five children in my family were often brought to full boil by shamefully trivial incidents. I can recall several good punchings-out with my brother Charlie, whose habit of wanton thievery from my collection of jockey shorts led to more serious offenses, such as rising early to snatch a freshly ironed shirt from my row of sophomore year favorites. The tension this created could swiftly transport us to the topic of Which One Mother Loved, though that issue has since been resolved in favor of All Five. Still, I try to keep one eye on the closet whenever Charlie comes by.

If we had only grown up in the age of permanently pressed shirts, we might have spent more time on that universal cure-all for every form of human agression. Of course I am referring to sport.

People would ask our sister, "Betsy, what's it like, being the only girl of five children?" She didn't have to compete for jockey shorts, was what it was like. But then she didn't have to compete with us at sports, either. There were no magazines telling her she could beat us.

However, she would be more than a little curious to know about a recent athletic reunion, the August 8 set of doubles featuring Charlie and Jim vs Tom and Ted.

It started as a singles match. Charlie was visiting from Grass Valley, and tennis seemed a good way to fill out the afternoon. But Jim and Tom, who had been pumping new life into their own long-standing rivalry, heard of th meeting and knew it would be worth joining.

By my reckoning, the four of us had not been on the same playing surface since sometime in the mid-1960's, maybe earlier. I tried to avoid this embarrassing thought and to focus on hitting the tennis ball. Fortunately, there was enough incentive (read "fear of failure") to keep my concentration relatively pure.

For an even greater psychological lift, I convinced myself that I would have to play well over my head. Charlie had beaten me 6-1, 6-0 the last time we had played, and had insisted on giving me "tips" throughout the match. Jim, on the other hand, had returned in December from two and a half years of involuntary exile for the crime of being disinterested in American imperialism, and seemed to have channeled all his loathing for the Selective Service System and the FBI into the rebuilding of his tennis game. And Tom had just finished a season with the Butte Community College team, whose fifth-place ranking in the state was not wasted on any of us.

His coach had encouraged him to switch to a metal racket. Wood wasn't durable enough.

Power hitter, I figured.

Not necessarily. The problem was that the white ash used to make the Jack Kramer autograph model had a way of splintering when thrown repeatedly against a cyclone fence.

I had forgotten about my partner's short fuse. Would I be partially to blame for flying aluminum today?

Jim was still trying to warm up, and Charlie wanted a few serves. Tom seized the moment for a dash of macho, encouraging them to take as long as they liked, because we had been ready for some time. I was grateful for the reprieve.

Play began, and Jim's inability to block a forehand volley, hit directly at his navel while he played the net, quickly revealed itself. Charlie's service, decayed from exposure to 10-year-old opponents on the courts of Grass Valley, came in straight and fat when it came in at all, and by each game's end, we had Jim shellshocked.

Tom was enjoying himself. He hadn't counted on much help, but now he was able to devote more attention to needling Jim about close line calls — always an unsettling strategem, regardless of where a shot really lands.

He was also "poaching" freely, sprinting and leaping for balls which would have been well within my reach, and often missing his mark. This led to another quirk I've noticed among people who play the game constantly: self-scolding. It is evidently very important to use your own first name when going through this public flogging, and to be very unforgiving, at least until your next mistake.

The set came to 6-6, and with the score 3-3 in the five-point tiebreaker, I would be serving the next two. Tom approached me and advised, "In doubles, the most important thing is to keep the ball in play, so just try to get the first serve in." The idea had occurred to me.

Both times, the first serve went in. Both serves were returned into the net. There were congratulations all around, and even some talk of a rematch.

Brackets narrow in USLTA Juniors

The Fifth Annual USLTA Non-ranked Junior Racquet Tourney concluded its second full day of rugged match play last night before some of the most attractive sun-flashed females the city of pleasanton has waited a year to see.

Joined by over 300 entrants from as far away as Monterey, Belvedere, Monte Sereno and San Rafael, a flock of locals including brothers Andy and Dave Finn will move into today's third round.

Andy, who won his initial 18-year-old match by default, will meet Livermore's Perry Fotos, also a winner by default, this morning. Travis Lee of Pleasanton draws a bye today and will move into Friday's final.

Two other Pleasanton lads squaring off today are Bill Reeve and Dave Finn. Finn beat Jacob Frankel of San Francisco, 6-1, 6-1, and today plays Aurelio Herbst of Moraga.

A host of 18's were eliminated yesterday, including Mike Crow, Doug Holgreen, Ron Lapp and Dave Norton.

Eighteen-year-old Debbie Lapp of Pleasanton moved into tomorrow's final against San Jose's Michelle Harvey.

In the lower half of the boys' 16 draw, those reaching today's semi-final are Pleasanton's Bob Cannon, who meets Doctor Scholl of San Jose. Reeve, via a default, plays General Lee of Alameda. Dave Reineking is pitted against Steve Sarter of Millbrae, and Finn, who beat Brian Richards of Alameda, 6-0, 6-1, meets Saul Reiff of San Rafael.

Those bowing in single-elimination matches were Phil Newkirk, Lapp, Lee, and Rick Reed of Danville.

Kathy Bellmer of Pleasanton leads a contingent of 16's into third round play. Miss Bellmer plays Millie Mepayns of Walnut Creek. In another match, Lapp lost to a San Mateo opponent.

Rounding out the female bracket in 14-year-old play, Pleasanton's Wendy Sears and Marilyn Morrell both recorded wins. Sears, by a default, and Morell over Dana Anderson of Menlo Park, 6-4, 6-2. No locals were entered in the girls 12 and 10-year-old divisions.

Following an opening win, Reineking squares off against Oliver Overton of Moraga. Livermore's Greg Corallo meets Alvin Roche of Berkeley, and Ricky Gottesman plays Doug Duttimer of Alamo.

City defines 'low income'

LIVERMORE — A family of four in this city earning less than $7,750 a year will be considered "low-income" under a definition being considered for adoption by the city council.

The council arrived at the definition in accordance with the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) regulations as specified in the Code of Federal Regulations.

City Attorney Bob Logan told the council his research showed that HUD considered $15,500 a year to be the median income for this area and that a family of four earning 50 per cent of the median — or $7,750 — would be considered "low-income."

The council voted unanimously to prepare a resolution specifying this definition of "low-income." The main reason behind this decision is to specify which, if any, housing proposed for the city indeed is "low-income" and therefore entitled to some of the limited remaining sewage capacity.

This decision was inspired by a request of Kay Building Company to define "low-income" so the developer could determine if his proposed housing tracts would qualify for sewage treatment plant capacity.

Tentative tract maps for 11 acres with 33 lots north of Joyce Street and another 4.3 acres with 13 lots north of Katrina Way filed by Kay Building were recommended denied by the planning commission on the basis of no available sewage.

The developer's representative was present at the city council meeting Monday when the "low-income" definition was discussed and he indicated Kay Building was "looking positively at the definition and the first reaction is 'go.'"

He then requested the council continue considering the developers' tentative map for another three weeks. This was granted but Councilman Don Miller notified him a final decision would be made at that time.

The matter has appeared on the council agenda and been continued three times. Miller made his suggestion for the sake of interested residents who have appeared at the council meetings each time the tentative map is scheduled for consideration.

CITY COUNCIL OF
THE CITY OF PLEASANTON
ALAMEDA COUNTY, CALIFORNIA
ORDINANCE NO. 768

AN ORDINANCE AMENDING PORTIONS OF CHAPTER 1 (SUBDIVISIONS), TITLE II (ZONING AND DEVELOPMENT) OF THE ORDINANCE CODE OF THE CITY OF PLEASANTON RELATING TO TENTATIVE SUBDIVISION MAPS, AND ADOPTING SAME AS AN URGENCY MEASURE

THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF PLEASANTON DOES ORDAIN AS FOLLOWS:

Section 1. Wherever in Chapter 1 (Subdivisions), Title II (Zoning and development) of the Ordinance Code of the City of Pleasanton, the term "City Clerk" appears, it shall be amended to read "Director of Housing and Community Development or his designated representative."

Section 2. Wherever in Chapter 1 (Subdivisions), Title II (Zoning and Development) of the Ordinance Code of the City of Pleasanton the term "Business and Professions Code".

Section 3 Section 2-2.40 (Filing), Article 4 (Tentative Map), Chapter 1, Title II of the Ordinance Code of the City of Pleasanton is amended to read as follows:

Sec. 2-2.40 Filing. The subdivider shall file with the Planning Commission twenty-five (25) white copies and one (1) duplicate transparency of the tentative map of each subdivision and such other copies as may be required by the Director of Housing and Community Development or his designated representative. The time of filing of a tentative map shall be construed to be the time at which a tentative map meeting all of the requirements of this article has been filed with the Director of Housing and Community Development or his designated representative and the environmental impact review process (including completion of any required environmental impact report or negative declaration) established by the City Council has been completed. The Director of Housing and Community Development or his designated representative shall indicate the date of receipt of a tentative map meeting the requirements of this article and shall advise the applicant in writing when the time period for evaluation by the Planning Commission of the tentative map has commenced.

Section 4. Section 2-2.47 (Information required on Tentative Map), Article 4, Chapter 1, Title II of the Ordinance Code of the City of Pleasanton by changing the last paragraph of said section to read as follows:

"The Director of Housing and Community Development or his designated representative shall reject a tentative map if the information required above is not included upon said map. The Review Board shall reject a minor subdivision map if the information required above, which is applicable is not included upon said map. In the event of such rejection, the proposed subdivider shall be notified as soon as possible in writing."

Section 5. Section 2-2.50 (Planning Commission Action), Article 4, Chapter 1, Title II of the Ordinance Code of the City of Pleasanton is amended to change the time period referred to therein from "forty (40)" to "fifty (50)" days

Section 6. This ordinance shall become effective immediately upon its passage and adoption pursuant to Sec. 36937 of the Government Code in order to clarify provisions of the City Subdivision ordinance in line with existing law.

Section 7. The facts constituting the need for this ordinance as an urgency measure are as follows:

1. The said Subdivision Map Act, effective as of March 1, 1975, is now contained in the Government Code and not in the Business and Professions Code, and thus, it is necessary to clarify provisions of the City Subdivision Ordinance in order to insure that there is no conflict between the provisions of said ordinance and that of State Law.

2. The provisions of the Environmental Quality Act require the evaluation of a project on environmental grounds and preparation of the pertinent evironmental document (i.e. either a negative declaration or an environmental impact report) before a project may be approved. The State Subdivision Map Act, however, provides that a City must act on a tentative map once it has been filed within 50 days of said filing or the map shall be deemed approved.

In order to clarify the discrepancy between the California Environmental Quality Act and the State Subdivision Map Act, it is necessary to clarify when a map is filed in the City of Pleasanton for purposes of computing the 50-day provision of the Subdivision Map Act:

3. Owners of property in the City of Pleasanton are preparing or have prepared tentative subdivision maps which could be filed with the City of Pleasanton and in the absence of this clarification, the City could be placed in a position of having to obtain a requested waiver of the 50-day provision which the subdivider may or may not grant. If the subdivider does not grant said extension of time, then the City has no option but to recommend denial of the map on environmental grounds. This process can lead and has led to litigation in the past and is expensive to both the citizens of the City of Pleasanton and the subdividers. This ordinance is necessary at this time to prevent such conflicts.

4. The normal waiting period for implementation of an ordinance is 30 days after its adoption. During this period of time, tentitive maps could be filed with the City which would cause the difficulties enunciated before. Thus, it is imperative that this ordinance be adopted now to clarify when, in fact, the tentative map is filed with the City.

Section 8. This ordinance shall be published once within fifteen (15) days after its adoption in "THE TIMES," a newspaper of general circulation, published in the City of Pleasanton.

INTRODUCED AND ADOPTED at the regular meeting of the City Council of the City of Pleasanton on August 11, 1975, by the following vote:
AYES: Councilmembers Herlihy, LeClaire, McLain, Philcox and Mayor Kinney

Schooner display today

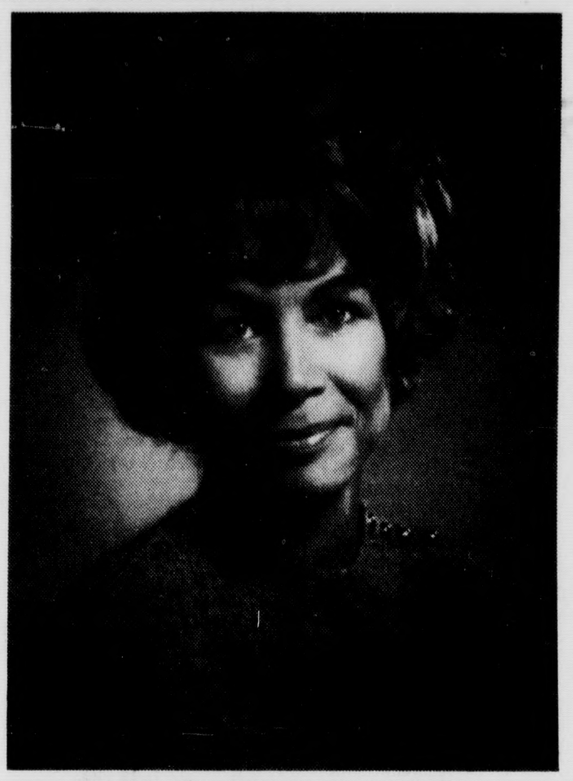
LIVERMORE — The prairie schooner that will make a Bicentennial pilgrimage from California to Pennsylvania next year will be on display in the Longs Drug Store parking lot, First and P streets, from 2 to 8 p.m. today.

Wagon Master Harold Gabriel and his wife Ruth will accompany the covered wagon to answer questions about the project and sell souvenir commemorative envelopes and an historical summary of the trek.

Proceeds from the sales will help refurbish the wagon which must be rebuilt before the Bicentennial trip to Valley Forge. The Gabriels are trying to raise $2,000 for the restoration, which is planned by Cal Palmer of Livermore.

Persons buying commemorative envelopes may request the Gabriels to carry the envelopes on the wagon train to Valley Forge and mail them back on the Fourth of July.

The special cachets also are sold at Bob's Coin Corner, 1870 First St. and at the Carnegie History Center.



NEW CHAMBER BOARD MEMBER

Dottie Farnsworth, manager of the United California Bank in Livermore, has been appointed to the Livermore Chamber of Commerce board of directors. Mrs.Farnsworth will assume John Staley's seat on the board and her term will expire in January 1977. Staley, appointed to the city council, resigned his chamber board seat last month.

State asks transportation plan data

Public hearings are underway throughout the state on a California Transportation plan.

The completed Transportation Plan will be submitted to the Legislature on or before January 1, 1976, and updates are scheduled thereafter.

Hearings have already been held in Fresno and San Francisco. Still to come are hearings in Redding Aug. 21, Los Angeles Aug. 28, San Diego Aug. 29 and Sacramento Sept. 4.

Subsequent to these initial hearings, the State Transportation Board will conduct a workshop on the hearings Sept. 5, in Sacramento; a hearing on the workshop findings, Oct. 2 in Sacramento; a final report hearing, Nov. 6 in Sacramento; and will adopt the Plan Dec. 4 in Sacramento.

Written comments from citizens on the Plan will be accepted until Sept. 4 and should be forwarded to the State Transportation Board with a copy to the CALTRANS Division of Transportation Planning at the following addresses:

William S Weber, Executive Secretary, State Transportation Board, P.O. Box 1139, Sacramento, Calif. 95805; J.T. Kassel, Statewide Systems Planning Branch, Division of Transportation Planning, Dept. of Transportation, P.O. Box 214177, Sacramento 95821.

The Legislature is now considering legislation, SB 500, that would require the Legislature to adopt the California Transportation Plan. One item called for in this pending legislation is a five-year estimate of transportation capital funds available in eight county groups.

It also would require that CALTRANS recommend alternative expenditure programs for regional transportation plans. These recommendations will be based on the State alternatives and public reaction to the alternatives. The State recommendation will be on the allocation of State and Federal dollars among the regions and to the various levels of systems (state, regional, local). This is seen as a way to provide greater direction and continuity to future planning efforts at the regional level.

The five-year implementation programs have been summarized into eight county groups.

Under the plan for San Francisco metropolitan counties, $1,366,000 would be necessary for operating costs and $1,317,000 for capital costs. This would be used to purchase 1,539 transit vehicles, construct one fixed guideway extension, three ferry boats and construction of two ferry boat terminals.

Maintenance and administration of a highway program is projected to cost $286 million and capital improvements $946 million. This would cover construction of three fringe parking lots, 58.2 miles of new freeway and expressway, 86.6 directional miles of operation improvements, 38.1 miles of freeway widening, 21.8 miles of exclusive busway and 34.3 miles of conventional highway improvements.

The airport improvement program would find $185 million earmarked for San Francisco International and $80 million each to San Jose and Oakland.

The funding sources for San Francisco area counties include Highway Users Tax Account funds, Transportation Development Act funds, Federal Urban Mass Transportation Administration and that portion of the Federal Aid Highway program funds restricted to construction projects on the Federal Aid-Urban Highway System.

Operating costs include the projected five-year cost of operating, maintaining and administering the public transit program in the region. The capital cost includes the cost of all vehicle purchases, guideway construction and improvement, and other related transit construction.

Listed under the section on "actions required to implement statewide transportation alternatives" are the following:

(Assuming a policy to maximize travel opportunities is adopted)

- Construct a new heavy rail system in Los Angeles and San Diego, and expand Bay Area Rapid Transit.
- Expand rural transit service.
- Maintain existing funds for highways and increase level by 50 per cent.
- Index fuel tax to economic indicator.
- Funding levels— provide for and alocate based on road needs.
- Revise streets and highways code— city and county distribution amounts.
- Provide State funds for capital and operating costs of increased Amtrak service.

Eight other policies along with objectives and required actions, are also presented in the report.

They range from a policy calling for "no build" to the latter policy of maximizing travel opportunities.

Among the questions the State Transportation Board is asking for help on are:

Does the Plan effectively communicate California's transportation problems? Are there major omissions?

What transportation alternatives should be further examined or tested in this Plan or in future iterations?
